

Performance Commentary

The market debate currently centres around which stocks are the preferred re-opening plays, but to us this type of short-term noise has limited relevance to our investment process. Instead, as long-term investors we prefer to analyse the earnings power of companies over the next 3-5 years. Encouragingly, many of our fund's holdings have weathered the pandemic well and used the opportunity to take market share from weakened competitors. SKAGEN Global outperformed its benchmark index in April. The fund is ahead of its benchmark on both the year-to-date and 3-year time periods. One of the fund's top absolute performers was Intuitive Surgical, the global leader in robotic-assisted surgery. The company posted strong results showing that patients who have postponed surgical procedures during the pandemic are now beginning to return to the operating room. The worst performer in absolute terms was the railway operator Canadian Pacific (CP). CP earlier launched a take-over bid for the US railway operator Kansas City Southern (KCS) to create the first single line connecting Mexico, the US and Canada. However, CP's larger domestic rival Canadian National recently offered a higher bid for KCS and the outcome now seems to be in the hands of the regulator. The portfolio is attractively valued seen over our multi-year investment horizon.

The fund selects undervalued companies from around the world, including emerging markets, with attractive risk-reward for long-term investors.

The objective is to provide the best possible risk adjusted return.

The fund is suitable for those with at least a five year investment horizon.
