Investment strategy

SKAGEN Focus is a high conviction equity fund that seeks to generate long-term capital growth by investing in a portfolio of global companies across the market capitalisation spectrum, with the majority of exposure invested in small and mid-cap companies. Subscriptions are made in fund units and not directly in stocks or other securities. The benchmark reflects the fund's investment mandate. Since the fund is actively managed, the portfolio will deviate from the composition of the benchmark.

Risk profile (SRRI)

We have classified this product as 5 out of 7, which is a medium-high risk class.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets. A medium-high risk class rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium-high level. Other risks materially relevant to the PRIIP not included in the summary risk indicator: Event risk, liquidity risk, operational risk, counterparty risk, derivatives risk and currency risk. If the fund invests in securities in a currency other than the fund's base currency, the value is affected by changes in the exchange rate. In addition, the value of your payout may be affected if your local currency is different from the fund's currency. This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.

Portfolio manager commentary, January 2026

Global equity markets had a volatile start to 2026, shaped by escalating geopolitical developments, including tensions related to US intervention in Venezuela, renewed friction surrounding Greenland, and unrest in Iran. Meanwhile, equity markets outside the US showed relative strength, as investors increasingly looked beyond the very narrow leadership of US mega-cap technology stocks.

We also observed growing scrutiny of renewed billions in AI capex spending and how it is being financed. Against this backdrop, the fund delivered a strong performance in January, outperforming global equity markets, with several of our positions in South Korea once again acting as key contributors. Improved sentiment around corporate governance reform and capital allocation continued to support several Korean holdings.

Our largest position, automotive supplier Hyundai Mobis, was our strongest performer during the month, supported by renewed investor interest following Hyundai Motor Group's AI and robotics announcements at CES 2026. The company's role as a potential key supplier to the robotics platform adds longer-term optionality to the investment case, while the core valuation remains undemanding and supported by normalized automotive operations and its substantially discounted ownership stake in Hyundai Motor. Other positive contributors included North American methanol producer Methanex, supported by stabilising methanol prices and improving supply dynamics, and the under-the-radar Korean investment conglomerate KCC, where the market is gradually recognizing both asset backing and earnings normalisation potential.

On the negative side, our newly initiated position in German spinoff Aumovio gave back some gains following a very strong end to last year, while our Austrian construction materials producer Wienerberger was weighed down by worries of continued weakness in European residential construction.

As we move further into the year, we continue to see significant distortions across large parts of our investment universe, which we believe are particularly compelling for global small- and mid-cap companies outside the US.

Sustainability

SKAGEN's approach to sustainability

Our ESG approach is built on four pillars. In keeping with SKAGEN's active investment philosophy, our sustainability activities centre on active engagement with our holding companies, which is where we believe we can have the greatest impact. We recognise, however, that the full potential of a sustainable investment strategy is best realised when combining the following four pillars.

- ✓ Exclusion
- ✓ Enhanced due diligence
- ✓ ESG factsheet
- ✓ Active ownership

Article 8

Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR)

The product promotes environmental and social characteristics by directing its capital towards companies and issuers that meet defined ESG (environmental, social and governance) criteria. This is achieved through compliance with international norms and conventions, by taking into account negative impacts on sustainable development (PAI) and through product- or activity-based exclusions. See the prospectus for more information on the products sustainability characteristics.
